REPUBLICANS IN CONTROL OF SENATE

MAJORITY HELD BY ONE VOTE BUT MUST BOW TO INSURGENTS

The "Bad Boys" Will Help To Organize Body and Then Quit Reservation, Is Washington's Fear—Dawes' Vote Nullifies Tie, Rules Reveal—Radicals Do Not Like To Be Disciplined By Regulars—But Lost Honors Will Be Restored To Them—Brookhart and Frazier To Be Welcomed.

Republicans are to retain nominal control of the senate of the Seventieth congress, elected last Tuesday, by a majority of one vote.

Final returns show that the next senate is to be composed of 48 Republicans, 47 Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite, Hendrix Shipstead, of Minnesota.

Even should Senator Shipstead vote with Democrats on organization, which is unlikely, the tie could be broken by the vote of Vice President Charles G. Dawes, a Republican, who would cast the deciding vote for his party.

Hence, the outlook is for the Republicans to organize the Seventieth senate, which means election of the major officers, the retention of the chairmanships of the committees and the majority of representation on each.

Concessions probably will have to be made to the senate insurgents, all of whom will hear the label of Republicans. Two of them, Senator Lynn J. Frazier, of North Dakota, and Senator elect Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, were among the four Republican insurgents who were read out of the party at the outset of the present congress. A third, Senator-elect John J. Blaine of Wisconsin, was a follower and political protégé of the late Senator Robert M. La Follette, who likewise was ostracized by his Republican colleagues, and whose son, the present Senator La Follette, succeeded him in the senate.

Four other insurgents of varying intensity make up the group of eight senators, listed as Republicans, who will follow an independent course in all matters in which the Coolidge administration is concerned.

No such disciplinary measures are looked for in the next senate, when the votes of these eight senators are needed to organize the body.

Frazier and Brookhart will be welcomed back into the party fold with open arms by the regulars and treated with due consideration in the assignment of committee chairmanships and committee memberships, to say nothing of patronage crumbs that will fall from the senate table.

But that is about as far as the reconciliation will go. Once the senate is organized, the insurgents and independents will do as they please with legislation bearing the hall marks of the Coolidge administration.

control disappeared with the elections of last Tuesday. Any time two or more of the insurgents decide to join with the Democrats in opposing Coolidge proposals they are doomed to defeat. By uniting their forces they can hold the balance of power at any time between the two parties.

A similar situation existed in the senate in the Sixty-eighth congress. At that time the Democrats played ball with the insurgents, joining with them in many successful assaults against administration proposals. A Republican landslide in 1924 followed. Somewhat chastened by the rebuke administration to them at the polls, the Democrats adopted a different course in the present congress. They refused to enter into any combination with the insurgents to embarrass the administration.

HUSBAND KILLS SELF.

Angered because his wife asked him for 50 cents, John Smola, 72, hurled her down the cellar stairs inflicting perhaps fatal injuries and then shot and killed himself. Mrs. Smola told police her husband was building a roaring fire in the furnace with the intention of burning her alive.

Mansfield —With a price of $500 on his head, William Fox, 19, of Cincinnati, was hunted today as the slayer of Urbin Wolford, aged guard at the state reformatory here.

Fox a former inmate of the institution here, was identified by pictures as the youth George Trott, a trusty battled with after Wolford had been fired on by a gunman. The state welfare department offered a reward of $500 for the arrest of the slayer.

An attempted delivery of two prisoners in the institution was the cause of the attack on Wolford, reformatory officials said after a detailed investigation.

Washington C. H.—Drastic economy measures will become effective in Washington C. H. Sunday. The city police force will be reduced to one patrolman; the fire department will consist of one fireman; the municipal building will be vacant and barred. The city will be without street lights. Failure of the voters to approve a special three mill levy for operating expenses of the city caused the crisis. The American Legion offered the services of its members for temporary duty in patrolling the streets, fighting fires and other public services.

Findlay —Mrs. Gladys Norie, 19, was brought here today to answer to charges of house breaking, auto theft and larceny. Officials here charge that Mrs. Norie broke into a house here then stole an automobile and went to Cleveland where she wrecked the automobile. She then stole a second automobile, they charge and drove to Toledo. Her husband, William Norie, 22 is held in Cleveland on a separate charge of larceny and automobile theft.

Youngstown —Disclosures of alleged mistreatment of prisoners in the Canton workhouse will be made late today at a conference of Judges Joseph L. Hoffman and Thomas H. Jenkins, and two city detectives.

The report on conditions in the workhouse has been completed by the investigators and will be submitted for approval of the jurists before being forwarded to Governor Donahey.

BANDITS MAKE ESCAPE FROM POLICE CORDON

Answer Command to Surrender With Lead and Gun Fight.

Lying in ambush for bandits who were to rob a drug store, in Chicago, nine policemen Friday shot it out with three robbers and lost.

Acting on information given them by an informant, the policemen stationed themselves in a circle around the store. After a several hour wait and automobile pulled up and three men with guns started to get out.

As they did so, two officers ran forward with surrender commands. The bandits replied with lead and a gun fight which ensued several minutes in which one policeman, John O'Leary, was wounded.

The bandits escaped in a running fight after shooting themselves clear of the police cordon.

THE BOURBONS LAND THE LIEUT. GOVERNORSHIP

Election of Earl D. Bloom, Bowling Green, Democrat, as lieutenant governor, over James O. Mills, Columbus, Republican, by 4,319 appears virtually certain, from latest figures in the office of the secretary of state. These figures gives Bloom a lead of 4,319 votes. The vote stands: Bloom, 643,737. Mills, 630,418.

These are the returns from 73 counties and telephone reports from 15 counties whose written returns had not been received.

Each of these 15 counties was called by telephone and the figures on hand checked against the official records.

EASTERN STAR ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

Williamsport Chapter Fittingly Observes It's Thirty Years Existence.

A most interesting session of Heber chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, was held Thursday evening, celebrating the thirtieth anniversary of that organization in the village.

The chapter was instituted thirty years ago by Crown chapter, No. 8, of Columbus, assisted by Royal chapter, No. 29, of Washington C. H., and at this anniversary occasion both chapters were present as invited guests.

The beautiful degrees of the order were exemplified in faultless style by past patron, with Mrs. Edwin Newhouse presiding.

At the conclusion of the degree work a most impressive memorial service was held for officers and members who have died since the organization of the chapter. The memorial service was rendered by Worthy Matron Wanda Wardell assisted by Mrs. Clarence McAbee and Mrs. Edna Newhouse. Vocal and instrumental music added much to the effectiveness of both memorial and degree work.

Seventeen members of Crown chapter were present when the local organization was instituted and the same number from the same chapter was present at the anniversary celebration thirty years later, including the present worthy matron and worthy patron, Mrs. Spence and Mr. Stevens.

A goodly number of officers and members of Royal chapter were present, among them being the worthy matron and worthy patron, Mrs. Hayes and Mr. Duff.

The honor guest was Past Worthy Grand Matron Eva J. Penn, of Washington C. H., who assisted in the ceremony of instituting the chapter three decades ago.

Mrs. Penn complimented Heber chapter on its growth and property and on the impressive manner in which the degrees were conferred and she also expressed her very great pleasure in having the privilege of attending the anniversary celebration.

Other speakers were worthy matrons and worth patrons of Crown and Royal chapters.

Reminiscences of the Williamsport chapter during the thirty years of its history were given in most entertaining and instructive manner by Past Matron Celia Morgan.

Preceding the session a splendid chicken dinner, with all the trimmings was served to the one hundred and fifty members of the order attending the meeting.

Those present from this city were Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Clark K. Hunsicker, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Colwell, Mrs. John P. Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Chappellear.

Fosteria—Two mutes, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Dennis, missing since Tuesday were discovered asphyxiated in their home here today. J. E. Whiteman, a farmer, becoming alarmed broke the door of the Dennis home and found the couple dead. They apparently had been suffocated by fumes from a coal stove.

WELSH BARDS IN YEARLY SESSION

Once upon a time (Sixth century) Welsh harpers cast their harps into the River Conway, dived in themselves, swam, towed, hauled out their harps upon the further shore, plucked manfully but inaudibly at sodden strings. Followed a troop of Welsh singers. Having swam the Conway they sang no better and no worse than before. Prince Maelgwn Gwynedd of North Wales thereupon welcomed the singers to the first recorded Welsh Eisteddfod, heaped their palms with gold, banished his harpers, proclaimed the confirmation through "trial by water" of his pet theory: That song is superior to instrumental music. Since then the Eisteddfod (literally "session," actually "contest") of Welsh bards has become a yearly recurrent cultural diversion.—Time.

Women Drivers

Three hundred women in Paterson, N. J., who successfully completed a safety-first course for women drivers of automobiles, have organized to prevent accidents of all kinds. They were also instructed on the prevention of accidents in the home. Membership in the new organization was restricted to those who were able to pass an examination. Practical demonstrations were given in the work of all mechanical parts of an automobile.

DISHES GET FIRST SCRUBBING IN AGES

Ancient Pottery Found in Pueblo to Be Cleaned.

Washington.—Dishes that have not been washed for hundreds of years are about to be scrubbed and put on exhibition at the United States national museum here. They are the collection of earthen kitchen-ware, funeral urns, and other objects brought back from Eldon pueblo, an ancient Indian metropolis near Flagstaff, Ariz., by Dr. J. Walter Fewkes, curator of American ethnology at the Smithsonian Institution.

The bowls, vases, pots and jars were used by the ancestors of the modern race of Hopi Indians. It is believed, and are much cruder than those found farther south in Mexico and Central America. Many of them are lopsided and none of them have flat bottoms.

Unlike Perfected Pottery Today.
They are quite unlike the perfected Indian pottery picked up by tourists in the southwestern United States today. Most of the bowls, jugs and effigies are made of red clay baked over fires so that the inside is smoked black and the outside clouded into irregular black and red shapes. These articles are said to resemble the crude predynastic pottery of Egypt before the days of recorded history, and apparently the same method was used in making both.

A second type of pottery depends for its decorative effect on notches made by the thumb-nail or by a pointed stick uniformly all over the outer surface. These vessels appear to have been made by laying strings of clay around and around and notching them into place until the shape desired was built up. This gives a corrugated effect to the objects.

Many Bowls Effectively Decorated.
Many of the other pots and jars are covered with conventional Indian type of designs in black and white meandering and zigzagging over the surface.

One especially effective bowl might easily have been done by a modern artist of the impressionistic school.

Some of the objects found were recovered from within the ruins of the house, but many more beautiful and interesting ones came from the graveyard at the back. According to the aboriginal Indian custom, effigies and vessels probably once filled with food, medicines, and holy objects were buried with the dead. The corpses were plastered down with adobe and the possessions of the deceased placed around and on top. In many cases the skeleton remains found had been dressed up in shell bracelets and ornaments.

All of the objects brought back were covered with crusts of alkali, which entirely covered the surface and hid the interesting details. Only a few of them have been washed and studied to date.

Old English Almshouses

Trinity almshouses, in the Mile-End road, constitute in their entirety one of the most picturesque bits of old London still extant. The 30 little houses and their surroundings have been left to all intents and purposes as they were when first erected 230 years ago by the Corporation of the Trinity House for "decayed masters and commanders of ships, mates and pilots and their wives or widows." Even the models of ships, characteristic of the period, that decorate the roofs, though renovated from time to time, remain intact and so does the chapel. On the green is a statue of Capt. Robert Sandes, a generous benefactor to the institution, who died in 1721.—London Daily Mail.

Individuality in Autumn Fashions

Distinction and Variety Characterize Popular Modes for Fall.

Individuality in dress has never been given more definite and more delightful expression than that in the styles of this season. Among the advance models from the fall collections, writes a fashion correspondent in the New York Times, are gowns for every type and each of these in many variants. "Occasion" is really a slogan in gowns as well as in millinery in the endeavor of couturiers and milliners to reach more distinction than the fancies of several seasons past. The silhouette takes several forms, all equally fashionable, as expressed in designs for afternoon wear.

One may have, according to preference, a straight-line frock, relieved only by plaits; the dolman design; elegant flaring; and, in the softer arrangement of drapery, the uneven hem line. Of these the dolman blouse, the lift front and the unpressed bay-plaited clusters are striking features. Waistcoats, girdles and belts are worn with the most of the models and an effort is evident in some to define the normal waistline. But this is done with success only in the styles created for youthful and very slim figures.

Ensemble is the correct mode for daytime and evening, for costumes of formal as well as informal occasions, in which a harmony of scheme is worked out in every detail of fabric, line and color. There is no remnant of an antiquated idea of bit-or-miss in the present season's dress. There is a wrap for every gown and several to meet every demand of a woman's social activities. One wrap, except of fur, is not accepted as the answer to several costumes, but is for convenience and general utility.

Gowns and Wraps.

There is an intimate artistic partnership between the new gowns and wraps, for the same materials are invariably introduced in some arrangement in both, a standard which has challenged the imagination and skill evident in the models shown by both French and American designers. A significant note in the new version of the ensemble is the short coat, which is a happy solution of costume for autumn, especially adapted to the use of wool fabrics. Jenny, who is departing from her usual charming conventionality, is doing some extremely smart ensembles in which the frock, finished in itself, has a short coat which completes the costume and adds a degree of comfort and convenience. In this ensemble two colors of kashmir, gray and green, are worked together in panel and mosaic insets and bands that follow a geometric pattern. The lines of Jenny's model are straight and flat, with inverted box plaits at each side giving freedom of movement. The coat, which ends at the hip line, is boxy in cut, with square, conspicuous outside pockets outlined with narrow stitched bands of cloth which define the cuffs, sleeve and collar. Not an inch of fur is used on this smart little outfit, which is both chic and serviceable.

An ensemble designed by Molyneux has a coat of three-quarter length and a collar of rabbit fur, extended down each side of the front to the edge of the hem. The cuffs are of fur and a muff, medium in size and flat in shape, is shown with the suit. The lines of this costume are severely straight, the skirt perfectly plain and narrow, the coat cut minus a ripple, and all of one supple diagonal cloth. Fur trimming appears to be a matter of individual taste, for the newest ensembles are shown with or without fur collars.

The Use of Fur.

In one of the most intriguing costumes seen thus far, called a suit by Premier, fur is introduced in an original and altogether luxurious manner. Without precluding winter weight, a suggestion of warmth is given to a softly tailored frock of myrtle green velours led by the use of a novelty fur—black suslik—making a striking contrast of color. The bodice of this interesting frock is cut in the high-collared style of the Russian blouse, the lower part of which is drawn in wrinkles about the hip, and caught in a slightly lifted motif with a cluster of gathers directly in front. A band of the fur is added to the bottom of the blouse, drawn tight around the hip, straight along the lower edge and with an upward curve in front. Cuffs and a collar having long stole ends tied cravat-fashion at one side are also of the fur.

The ripple which appears in so many of the latest models is done with much success by Vionnet in an ensemble of black velours de laine, for both the one-piece frock and its accompanying coat, which is three-quarter length and has a shawl collar and cuffs of novelty fur in two shades of gray. In these three-piece suits, as they are called, the coat is invariably made without a formal fastening, as in the coats that are intended to be used as separate wraps. The short coat and the bolero, each a part of the suit, give an appearance of a complete costume that fills admirably the interim between the fall and winter styles. Drecoll, who has always done clever things with the bolero, is presenting this season a smart version of the two-piece frock, introducing under a straight-cut jacket a waistcoat that ends in a girdle drawn about the hips upward to the middle of the back, where it is fastened with diagonally crossed lines. The suit is made of black velvet, severely plain except in front, where the skirt is laid in four box plaits. The waistcoat is of pink satin, making the fashionable color contrast, and a full long scarf of black fox is shown with the ensemble.

The Straight Line.

Another silhouette emphasizes the season's styles of straight line, the bodice ending at the knees. This is a late interpretation of the jumper suit in which the skirt presents the appearance of a bonnet, plaited all around or in a cluster in front. Sleeves are long and plain or full gathered, and collars are of several designs. One is the youthful soft Eton, the round or oval revers, and the turtle, with erect bend of material and cravat ends. Most all of the gowns, especially the softly tailored models, have some sort of scarf tie attached at the neck, but as a part of the dress. The separate scarf of crepe or chiffon is being replaced by the fur piece or stretch bon.

A lovely afternoon costume from the Lavinia atelier illustrates a movement considered now modish, and the Vogue of black velvet for afternoon. In this particular model the softly bloused bodice drops over the open skirt, which is lifted directly in front over a tight, straight skirt. A slash of the velvet is tied about the low waistline, finished with a bow and long ends in the middle front. A naive little turnover collar, deep cuffs and tips on the sash-ends are made of pale gray rabbit fur. Martiat et Armand are going in strong for both the lifted front drapery and the blouse effect in bodice, establishing some modes that are decidedly out of the ordinary, especially in an afternoon dress in which they combine two materials.

A revival in fashions is the dolman, now adapted to the bodice of a gown, and especially good in the afternoon costume. There is a suggestion of the kimono in the lines, voluminous and supple, with the wide dolman contrasting to the drapery tightly swathing the figure, with the fullness swung toward the front and lifted.

A dolman gown in which the full upper part contrasts strikingly to the slim effect of the drapery is done in myrtle green velvet and bengaline, with pink tails trimming the sleeves at the wrists, and added in a cluster of three at the back of the neck. The two new features, the dolman bodice and the lifted line in front drapery, are shown together in some of the latest models.

In one from Martiat et Armand the blouse is draped at the back in beautiful fullness over the girdle, which is pulled up sharply to the middle of the front and finished with an ornament. This particular afternoon costume is built of soft brown zibeline, and the belt of the gown, studded, is fastened with a clasp of burnished Burma gold.

Thoughts of Worth

Call for Expression

These two forms of silence—the silence of communion and the silence of repression—spring from beautiful and sterling foundations. But in themselves they are incomplete, and individual lives, though enriched, are never fulfilled through them. Mysticism and martyrdom must be related to living issues through expression, or they degenerate the one into introspective solitude, the other into narrowness of judgment, says a writer in the North American. Lives become sterile which might have been rich, had experience been translated into utterance.

The ministrations of words is indeed a blessed ministry. Because there are so many idle words, so many harmful words, so many insincere and blither and malicious ones, we must not stumble into the mistake of believing that silence of itself has golden merit. There is the silence of indifference or self-consciousness, of carelessness or weariness; there is the lazy silence, the silence which grows from a sense of futility, or from contempt and pride. Silence, no less than inaction, may be a form of selfishness. As the laws of harmony exist without music, so may all that is fundamentally beautiful in human life exist without words.

Wanted Proof of "Punch"

A San Francisco newspaper writer returns from Hollywood with a new story reflecting on the mentality of the Great Men that conduct the motion-picture industry. This writer went to the head of a cinema concern to apply for a position as a publicity man. "Can you write with a punch?" asked the Great Man. The applicant explained that for six years he had been a staff writer on a San Francisco newspaper. The Great Man, however, appeared to harbor some doubt as to the writer's qualifications to infuse "punchy stuff." "Let me hear you say some big words," he said, by way of imposing a conclusive test.

Senior's Court Dress

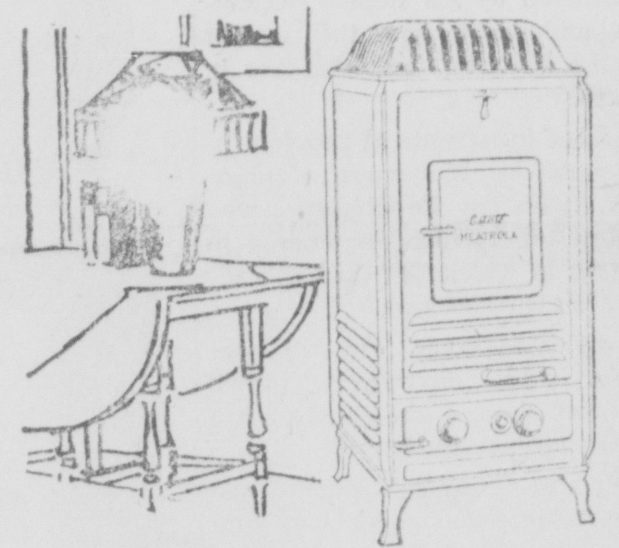

The Smithsonian Institution at Washington has a new addition to its "costume" collection. It consists of a handsome black velvet jacket, white silk waistcoat and black velvet knee breeches. Black patent leather pumps with silver buckles, black hose and a black tricorn hat complete the ensemble, which reposes in an imposing glass case and bears this placard: "Diplomatic costume worn by Henry Cabot Lodge on the occasion of a reception at Buckingham palace, London, 1895. Presented by the Lodge estate."

Historic French Tomb

Le Mans, one of the old towns of northern France, was unfamiliar to Americans until its strategic position made it a military base for the Americans during the World war. Normally the lines of travel in Europe do not touch Le Mans, so it is rarely seen by visitors. Among the things of interest there is the tomb of Berengaria, the woman whom Richard the Lion-Hearted loved, and because of whom he broke with the house of France, repudiating the sister of the king. Why she comes to lie there, while he is at Fontevault, I do not know. But there she lies, three weeks' march northward from her father's land, the queen and the mate of the greatest man of her time.—Hilaire Belloc, in the Independent.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK
CIRCLEVILLE, OHIO

"The Bank That Makes You Feel At Home."

Clerk Routs Bandits

With Loaf of Bread

Philadelphia.—Armed with a long loaf of bread, an eighteen-year-old clerk of a chain grocery store, pursued an armed negro bandit who had held up and robbed the manager, of the store where the young man was employed at Eighteenth and Federal streets.

Albert Beckershoff, who lives at 2122 South Seventeenth street, the clerk, was outside the store, preparing to bring inside a supply of bread which had just been delivered. As he started inside he was warned away from the door of the store by a negro, who thrust a revolver in his face.

Dodging under the man's arm, Beckershoff gained the inside to find another negro rifling the cash register with one hand, while he kept the store manager, Atkinson, backed into the corner with a revolver, which he pointed with the other hand.

As he saw Beckershoff approach swinging one of the loaves of bread, he fled out of a side door and ran north on Eighteenth street, with the young clerk in hot pursuit. In the meantime the other negro who had apparently been placed at the door as a "look-out" to keep customers out of the store, became frightened and also fled. Beckershoff finally lost his man in an alleyway several squares away from the store.

Good Food Neglected

It was contended for many years that no country could produce so excellent a macaroni as Italy, because of the species of hard wheat grown there, which is essential to its making. This wheat has a horny grain and contains a large amount of gluten.

However, the hard, flinty wheats of Algeria, of Tangarok, Russia, of Argentine and of the United States, especially the Dakotas, are as rich in the element needed as the best variety of the Italian farms. Durum wheat, therefore, is the pride of the Dakotas—the farmers have almost a monopoly of it.

An expert observer, speaking 30 years ago, said: "It is to be regretted that macaroni, spaghetti and vermicelli do not enter more largely into the dietary of the working classes of America, not less because of their cheapness and the ease with which they may be prepared than because of their nourishing qualities."

Practical Attire
for Wintry Days

Raincoats, Umbrellas, and Sweaters, in New Materials and Designs.

With the approach of winter most women turn some part of their attention to things severely practical in dress, including raincoats and umbrellas. To meet the need for protection against the elements, says a fashion correspondent in the New York Times, varied and colorful umbrellas and raincoats are now being shown. Both are surely and steadily becoming style-items—so much so, that they are classified as sport umbrellas, tailored and fancy ones. Color is important, both in design and styling, aside from the varied handle fancies. Notwithstanding the popularity of the vari-colored umbrella, the new models are made up mostly in the recognized blues, browns, purples, greens and black, with a touch of color in the narrow borders. These border designs are worked out in plaids, checks, Persian effects and floral motifs.

The very short umbrella, with heavy ferrule and handle of composition in a wide variety of colors, has a silk cording which may be either round or flat, known as the sport model. Another distinctive feature is its patented handle, so constructed as to hold in place the ends of the ribs, thereby doing away with the button and tape usually provided for such purposes. The tailored umbrellas, mounted on lacquered wooden shanks, have wooden ferrules and braided strap handles. In these, too, the color scheme is somewhat subdued, but few having fancy borders. Color, however, is introduced in the braided leather used in the handles.

Still more fancy types have hand-painted gores with the designs originating in the main shank and spreading out over the umbrella like a sunflower. Others have a narrow border of flowers and plain centers. These umbrellas also have fancy handles in carved designs and in the prince of Wales type, of colored quartz. An unusually attractive silk umbrella, made up in staple colors, has a handle of amber-like composition, inside of which is a small but lifelike representation of the head of a dog. Others show birds, cats, elephants and various other animals.

To provide the necessary protection on a wet day there is available a wide selection of raincoats and capes. These are virtually featherweights and may be folded up into a small bag provided for the purpose. Two styles are proving very popular—the military model that buttons high at the neck and is cut along straight lines, and any other which has raglan sleeves and flares toward the bottom, being worn either with or without a belt. Both types of coats are made of smooth, shiny material so translucent as to reveal clearly the frock being worn underneath. The colors include black, purple, red, green, brown, tan, gray and pastels.

Sweaters, rather neglected for summer as items of wearing apparel, except for mountain and beach sports wear, stir new interest now that cool weather is not far off. Special attention is given them, of course, by the sportswoman. For golf there is the cardigan jacket, with either a plain neck that is collarless or one with clipped wool collar. If the sweater serves as a jumper or forms an ensemble with a kasha dress, then the smart thing to have is one with a collar of soft fur. In these jacket and jumper types the colors chosen usually harmonize with the skirt or dress fabric—an easy task this season, for most of the sports dresses and skirts are made of lightweight wools in soft shades of tan, beige and gray. The turtle neck, either closed or open, worn by many over a blouse and as part of a dress, seldom takes the place of coat or jacket.

Krimmer Coat Is Liked
for Snappy Winter Wear

This smart coat is of krimmer, one of the favored furs for winter wraps. The model has a black collar of silky fox.

Long Hair Saves Life

of Woman Hit by Brick

Philadelphia.—The fact that she has clung to the old-fashioned custom of wearing all her hair may have saved the life of Miss Charlotte Ellis of Waldon, N. Y. Miss Ellis was walking on Ninth street, near Chestnut, when a brick, falling from the twelfth story of a nearby building, landed directly on her head. She was rushed to the Jefferson hospital, where it was found she had received a fractured skull and is in a serious condition. Physicians say that had she not had a heavy head of hair which partially softened the blow, she would probably have been killed instantly.

TREATED TO A FINE CONCERT

From the standpoint of pleasure and education, the concert Thursday evening sponsored by the Monday club, was a complete success. It was a highly pleased audience of real music lovers, who listened with keen appreciation to the accomplishments of The Women's Chorus of Chillicothe assisted by Mrs. Mabel Dunn Hopkins and Mrs. Fred Cook violinists. The director was Mrs. Dolores Maxwell whose abilities and talents are well known in this city.

In her tribute too much can not be said of this chorus, of excellent voices so perfectly trained, in harmony and interpretation of the carefully selected program. Mrs. Dard Hunter also of Chillicothe was the competent accompanist for all the vocal numbers.

Mrs. Mabel Dunn Hopkins with her always captivating personality, was well received by her friends and admirers who have heard her violin over the radio and in high music circles of Columbus. She was accompanied by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke.

"In a Persian Garden" sung by the mixed quartet, was perhaps the most familiar number on the program and its rendition by such lovely voices, held the audience spellbound until the last note.

The concluding number, displayed to good advantage, the quality and the training of the voices so perfectly controlled by their leader, Mrs. Maxwell. A beautiful addition to this song was the artistic obligato arranged for two violins, and played by Mrs.
Hopkins and Mrs. Fred Cook.

To the Point

"Censorship, or rather too much censorship," declared Ted Browning, famous director of crook and Oriental pictures, "is sapping the films of their vividness and vitality. Too many pictures today, owing to unintelligent censorship, are about as effective as the top sergeant from college who said to his men who were moving about in rank:

"Gentlemen! You are supposed to be at attention."

WASHINGTON

CITY HALL IS BEING CLOSED

Drastic Steps Necessary as Result of Financial Condition of Municipality.

The city building Thursday at Washington C. H., was being closed up by Mayor Rell G. Allen as one of the first of several drastic steps deemed necessary as a result of the serious financial condition of the city caused by failure of a three mill tax levy proposal at Tuesday's election, which was defeated by a vote of 1500 to 1058.

Retrenchment of the most startling nature is under way, and closing up the city building, which houses the mayor's office, council chambers and police headquarters, is the first step, Mayor Allen announced.

Records and equipment have been moved to Mayor Allen's private office. Telephone service is abolished and light, heat and water costs eliminated in the municipal building. Police headquarters will be in the engine house.

The next step will probably be a reduction of police and firemen and cutting off street lights and other branches of service. This may be done within the next few days.

For years the amount received for operating the city has been wholly inadequate and to care for the deficiency bonds were issued. The new law prohibits issuance of deficiency bonds, and brings the financial crisis to a showdown.

The bonded indebtedness of the city is $378,600, most of which was incurred about a decade ago during a program of street building at which time the city was assessed half of the cost on many streets.

There is ample money for school purposes and many thousands of dollars are in the gasoline tax fund but cannot be used for other than street repair and maintenance.

The interest and sinking fund eats up so much of the money actually coming to the city that only a few thousand dollars are left for actual running expenses.

SUPREME COURT RULES IN FAVOR OF FREMONT OHIO

The State Board of Health Ordered Building of a Filtration Plant.

The city of Fremont Friday was at liberty to carry thru plans to install a filtration plant to purify the water supply thru a bond issue of $180,000.

The state supreme court ruled in favor of the city in dismissing a suit brought by a taxpayer to prevent the bond issue and installation of the purifying system, as ordered by the state department of health.

In dismissing the action the court held that the taxpayers had not taken action within thirty days after the city council of Fremont passed the ordinance.

The case originated when the state department of health ordered the city of Fremont to provide pure water supply, the city council passed the ordinance to provide a filtration plant and declared it to be an emergency action necessary to public health and safety.

On the following day a group of citizens filed with the city auditor an initiated ordinance providing that the deep well system be used.

The city solicitor was requested to bring action to enjoin the sale of the proposed bonds and when the solicitor refused to act suit was brought by a taxpayer.

The common pleas court found for the city and was sustained by the court of appeals.

Poetic Intoxicant

A new intoxicant has appeared in Japan. In the precincts of a shrine at Kameido in Japan the other day a policeman on patrol discovered what he took to be a corpse. He telephoned to the village office for a coffin, which was at once sent, and the body put in. On the way to the village office, however, the corpse in the coffin revived and began to sing and dance, to the alarm of the bearers. It was later ascertained that he was a young man, aged twenty-three, who had been imprisoned by viewing the shrine blossoms.

AMUSEMENTS

If you like a strong forceful love-drama, rich in action, thrills, suspense and heart appeal, with a strong under-current of humor, staged against typical race track backgrounds and involving several colorful dance hall episodes, then you are sure to enjoy
"The Rainmaker" now current at the Met theater.

For this Paramount production adapted by Hope Loring and Louis D.
Lighton from the famous Red Book Magazine serial, "Heavenbent," by Gerald Beaumont, and directed by Clarence Badger, is compounded of those elements just mentioned.

Furthermore, it has the added advantage of a sterling cast, featuring such capable players as Ernest Torrence, William Collier Jr., and Georgia Hale, and including in its supporting personnel Brandon Hurst, Joseph Dowling, Tom Wilson, Martha Mattox and many others.

The theme of the plot is that of regeneration and the characters involved are a jockey and a dance hall girl. It is the jockey who gives the story its title, for his seeming ability to call forth rain merely by praying for it earns him the nickname of "The Rainmaker." Collier handles this role in capital style and gives a performance that rings with sincerity and humanness.

Georgia Hale as the girl, who falls in her attempt to break away from the dance hall life but eventually redeems both her self and the jockey, is wistfully charming and vividly convincing.
Torrence wins new laurels with his compelling characterization of "Mike" the bartender.

The action of the story is swiftly and dynamic working up smoothly to the powerful climax, in which an entire town is stricken with plague and Collier's prayer for rain is answered by a roaring cloudburst.

* * * * *
HARTMAN THEATER.
* * * * *

Those followers of the University of Michigan and Ohio State university who attend the Ohio State-Michigan game at the Ohio stadium, Columbus, Ohio, Saturday, November 13, will have a rare treat in store for them at the Hartman theater, Columbus. The management has had an amazing American drama, "In This Room," booked as the special attraction for the football enthusiasts. "In This Room" will play for the entire week of November 8, with a Wednesday matinee only. On Saturday, November 13, there will be no matinee as players and audience alike will be attending the Ohio-Michigan game. On Saturday night there will be two performances, the first at 7 p. m. and the second at 10 p. m. Orders for Saturday night must state whether for first or second show.

"In This Room" will thrill everyone who sees it as no other play has done since the famous presentation of "The Climax" four seasons ago. Heading a strong cast are Louis Wolheim, Olive Tell, Donald Gallaher, Robert Fischer
Maude O'Dell and Tom Brown.

Presented by James W. Elliott, producer of "Castles in the Air" and Donald Gallaher, who in combination, produced "The Gorilla," "In This Room" has been staged, directed and cast as no other drama in any seasons. Every detail is a nearly perfect as it is possible for direction and money to make it.

The story is thrilling from the first curtain until the finale. Suspense is strong thruout. Humor abounds in places where a laugh is needed to relieve the tension. It is a tale that will bring smiles, tears and shivers. Never in his glorious career has Louis Wol-heim had such a remarkable role, and one that is suited to him as no other part he has played. Wolheim is America's most famous actor of roles that are heavy, having fame in "The Hairy Ape" and "What Price Glory".

In "In This Room" Wolheim's performance shadows that of his Captain Flagg in "What Price Glory." Olive Tell, beloved to both the stage and picture fans, plays the leading feminine role with a warmth that brings to life memories of our own tender moments.

Cheer Humanity

As long as the human race possesses the psychological characteristics that it does, just that long will there be a real need for flowers and florists. The mental attitude of every one of us is influenced by his surroundings. We are cheered and very apt to regard material affairs through rosy glasses on a bright day and be depressed and have a tendency to look on the dark side of things when the clouds hide the sun.

Remembered All the Aunts

A little girl who had had diphtheria was much impressed with the word "anti-toxin." One evening when she was recovering she knelt at her mother's knee, as was her custom, to say her prayer. At the end of it she pe-tioned: "God bless Auntie Betty and Auntie Grace and Auntie Margaret—and God bless Auntie Toxin, too."

teenth century, at that time designat-

The Girl He Needed

She was young, shingled, and fair haired, and more than ordinarily attractive. As she sat down near the well-dressed man who had called her from the adjoining room her face wore a look of expectancy. Previous to this, he had said that he badly needed her.

The girl smiled encouragingly, and he sat down once again. With visible effort, he pulled himself together; then:

"Dear sir, in reply to yours of yesterday's date—"London Answers

A NATIONAL LIVESTOCK EXPOSITION

Ohio Will be Represented in Judging Contest by Darke County Team.

In recognition of its educational value to the stockmen and farmers along their lines, all railroads in Ohio have granted an open roundtrip rate of a fare and one-half to the International Live Stock exposition at Chicago, November 27 to December 4. Tickets will be sold from November 25 to December 1, inclusive and will have a return limit of December 6. This offers an excellent opportunity to enjoy a visit to the world's greatest agricultural show and a trip to the metropolis with all its attractions at special reduced rates.

Ohio will be represented in the Non-Collegiate Live Stock Judging contest November 26 at the international by its state champion team from the Jackson Township Pig club, Darke county. This team will compete at Chicago against similar groups from over twenty states to decide the national title. It is composed of Robert Brooks, Union City, Indiana, Eugene Hufford, Ansonia and Wayne Bremer Greenville, and is coached by Francis W. Wean, a vocational agricultural teacher at the Jackson township consolidated school. The three highest individuals in the national contest will receive agricultural college scholarships of $500, $300 and $200 offered by the Chicago association of commerce.

W. H. Palmer, Ohio State club leader, is chairman of the executive committee of leaders in charge of the fifth National Boys' and Girls' Club congress which will be held in connection with the international.

O. E. Bradfute, well known farmer and breeder of Xenia, is a director of the exposition. He was an exhibitor of Aberdeen-Angus cattle at the first International in 1900 and for many years figured prominently in the awards.

O. T. Henkle, general manager of the Union Stock Yard & Transit company, of Chicago, a native of Washington C. H., is treasurer and a director of the International and chairman of the Horse show committee which has charge of the evening programs in the arena.

E. L. Shaw, Ashley, has been selected as official judge of the fat South-down, Rambouillet and short and medium-wooled Grade and Cross-Bred sheep classes and award the wether championship at the coming show. He will also judge the college exhibits in the Mutton Improvement demonstration.

Early entries in the live stock classes by Ohio exhibitors included: Stump & Etzler, Convoy, 3 steers; Frantz Bros., Mt. Cory, 17 Galloways; Wm. McLaughlin, Columbus, 10 percherons; I. T. Hickman & Son, Marion, 31 Chester Whites; and Ohio State university Columbus, 15 steers.

England's Ancient Clocks

Old clocks have been recorded every now and then, but England claims two clocks that are more than 400 years old. One at a church in Rye parish, erected in 1515, is still running with the original mechanism, while one in Berkshire that has been faithfully telling time for 400 years is still working, though recently repairs had to be made in it.

PLOWING DEMONSTRATION

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday
On the Dave Ludwig farm, a short distance out of town on the Kingston pike, there will be a plowing demonstration next week on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in sod that has not been plowed within the last twenty years at least.

The novelty of this plowing aside from the fact that it will prove a test of the tractor and plow because of the long time that the sod has stood, lies in the fact that this will be the first opportunity for the people of Pickaway county to see the Ferguson plow in operation.

The Ferguson plow as can be seen by the illustration in the advertisement in this issue is different from any plow ever operated behind any tractor in this county. The plow has no wheels and is fastened and operated with its entire weight on the rear end of the tractor.

R. L. Brehmer, who is conducting the demonstration asks anyone whether he is a tractor owner or not to come and see this latest development in agricultural progress. The demonstration will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week the week of the eighth of November. 5novd2.

A DEMONSTRATION OF

One-Lever Control, in keeping with the extreme simplicity of the new Ferguson Plow

An innovation in power farming implements is the one-lever control found in the New Ferguson Plow. The plow can be easily lowered or raised from the driver's seat with one hand.

Tests have proven that more weight can be put on the New Ferguson with the control lever than is carried around by the wheeled plow. In other words, the New Ferguson has all the advantages of weight without having to carry it around.

This feature makes the operation of the New Ferguson an extremely simple procedure requiring less of the farmer's time and attention while plowing than any other plow made.

No longer is it necessary to use horses for finishing lands, for the New Ferguson does this work perfectly. The above illustration shows the last operation when finishing a land. The pointer is especially designed to bury the trash even in this operation.

Attributes Long Lifeto Closed Windows

"No fresh air" is the lifelong policy of Connecticut's oldest woman, who is mentally bright at one hundred and eight. Although confined to bed, Mrs. Sarah Bosworth Bradway ate a hearty birthday dinner of pork chops, fried potatoes, and mince pie, the latter served piping hot in good New England fashion. She is probably the first centenarian ever to attribute remarkable longevity to having lived with as little fresh air as possible. Aaron Bowen, village storekeeper, whose wife is one of Mrs. Bradway's two living daughters, has the greatest respect for her no-fresh-air policy. "If mother'd ever had a window open she'd have caught cold and died 50 or 60 years ago," he declares. "Course, I'm only seventy-five, but I never had a window open at night in my life. And I calculate to live to be a hundred or more myself, as long as I keep the windows shut, anyway."

Origin of "Farthing"

Early Saxon pennies had four grooves in them so that they could be easily broken. Each section was called a fourthing, the word later being corrupted to farthing.

Red Cross Life-Saving Service Is Nation-Wide

Scarcely of water apparently has no effect on interest in water rescue. Arizona, popularly associated with wide desert stretches and cactus, has gone in with enthusiasm for the Red Cross Life-Saving Service.

The building of new irrigation dams is rapidly transforming Arizona into a swimming State despite popular conception of that country.

In more than 800 swimming institutes conducted by the Red Cross the last summer, life-saving instruction was given by the Red Cross.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925, 7,145 men, 5,408 women, and 16,713 juniors passed the rigid tests of the Red Cross Life-Saving Service, and were awarded insignia. The total for the year of 29,266 represents an increase of 6,374 over the previous year. The total membership of this corps at the close of the year was 102,076.

The Tenth Annual Roll Call from November 11 to 25 is an opportunity to encourage these efforts through membership in the Red Cross.

The Tenth Annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross is held this year from November 11 to 25. It is an invitation to you to endorse with your membership its wide reaching service to humanity.

Red Cross Volunteer Workers Ever on Duty

Claim for the oldest volunteer knitter in the country is advanced by the Lincoln County Chapter of the American Red Cross at Wiscasset, Maine. She is Mrs. L. A. W. Jackson, who keeps busy knitting stockings for the Red Cross to send to destitute children abroad. The San Pedro, Calif. Chapter has a close second in a volunteer knitter 85 years old.

The annual report of the American Red Cross stresses the service of volunteers. In more than 3,600 Red Cross Chapters the officers and workers are volunteers.

They will act as solicitors in the Tenth Annual Roll Call for members, which the Red Cross will conduct from November 11 to 25.

Nearly 80,000 disabled veterans are assisted by the American Red Cross on an average every month. Care of the disabled veteran is a foremost responsibility of the Red Cross, in which the people can share by joining its ranks during the Tenth Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 25.

The American Red Cross is the official agency of the United States for disaster relief at home or abroad. Join during the Tenth Annual Roll Call from November 11 to 25 and share its services.

Removing Heat Stains

Heat stains may be removed from a highly polished table by applying the following in their respective order, using a separate cloth for each: Kerosene, alcohol and sweet or linseed oil. The last should be well rubbed in until the spot no longer shows. Frequently a cloth moistened with warm camphorated oil will remove the stain.

WATCH YOUR STEP

This is the time of year when motorists must add to their list of driving precautions, if they are to avoid accidents.

Autumn brings with it many beautiful things. It also brings slippery pavements, soft mud roads and other conditions dangerous to traffic.

School is in session; streets are crowded; there is rain and blizzards. Certainly a time to be careful.

It is a good time of the year to have the car put into condition for winter use. Remember, cars require care just as any other piece of machinery does.

Pedestrians are admonished to cross streets carefully. They should not forget to look both ways before crossing streets, if they have a desire to continue to walk.

It is a time for caution, as well as a time to wonder at nature's scenic beauty.—Ohio Motorist.

GAS INCINERATION

Is a Great Boon To Health Says Association.

The gas companies are furnishing a new form of service in the development of suitable gas incineration devices, according to the American Gas Association.

When every home is equipped with its own garbage disposal plant, the great municipal disposal plants will be unnecessary. This will eliminate one of the chief causes of controversy in most communities and add greatly to the movement to promote health.

"The transferring of waste matter to central disposal plants is undesirable," says the Association. "Not only does it menace health, because of the necessity of keeping pails and cans around the house for garbage storage around the house and in the kitchen, but it is also conducive to the general spread of disease by using the public streets to transport this waste matter to the place where it is destroyed. Incidentally, it adds greatly to the already too-complex traffic problem."

"It is gratifying to note that the gas companies are promoting the health of the community they serve in this manner, as it directly enhances the work now being done by public benefactors towards the elimination of the smoke evil."

"In an architect's competition recently conducted to secure plans for gas-equipped homes, every plan submitted contained provision for gas incinerating devices and gas heating furnaces. These two gas-fired appliances are already doing much to improve health condition in our cities and towns, by combating the spread of disease germs through smoke, and garbage. They are truly preventive machines."—Ohio Utility News.

NOT SCHOLASTIC

University, Va., Nov. 4.—(U.P.)—Battered and decrepit flivvers may be collegiate but they aren't scholastic, according to Edwin A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia.

An unusually large percentage of college students possessing automobiles failed to graduate. President Alderman asserts in a letter, made public today, which will be sent to parents of prospective students before the next term opens. The letter urges parents to "give serious thought to the question of providing your son with an automobile during his college career."

Worry makes thin people thinner and fat people fatter.

PROGRESSIVE RED CROSS CAMPAIGN FOR HEALTH

Public Health Nursing, Nutrition and Home Hygiene Work Cover the Country.

Important contributions to public health were made by the American Red Cross through its Public Health Nursing Service, Nutrition Service, and in instruction in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick. In every State and Alaska, with the exception of Delaware and Nevada, instruction was given by the Red Cross, also in the Philippines, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and Virgin Islands. A total of 57,370 women and girls learned to make a hygienic home, and care for the sick in their homes.

The United States Public Health Service estimates that adequate rural health nursing service would cost $20,000,000 annually, but would save a billion dollars in value of human life, earning power, and economic conservation. The American Red Cross, through its Public Health Nurses, of whom there were nearly 800 on duty the past year, is doing its part in meeting this requirement.

The Red Cross, through its Nutrition Service, taught thousands what to eat for health. In this country, 24 States were served with from one to ten Red Cross Chapter nutrition programs in each State. In 38 States, nutrition instruction was given either through the regular nutrition instructors or through volunteer dietitians.

During the school year an average of 15,413 individuals a month, including parents, teachers, pre-school, and school children, were assisted to a better knowledge of food in its relation to health, and how to apply it to their daily lives. In March, 111,219 individuals received this instruction, while during the year 3,588 classes were conducted and 6,450 conferences and home visits were given by nutritionists, thus reaching thousands of individuals.

The Annual Roll Call for Membership from November 11 to 25 is an invitation to all persons to assist in maintenance of such services through another year by enrolling in the American Red Cross.

RED CROSS SERVICES SHOW UPWARD TREND

Disaster Relief, Veterans' Aid Foremost in Fiscal Year. Services All Vital.

Expenditures by the American Red Cross for the last year showed a mounting curve as compared with those for the preceding year—$11,892,869.35 as against $10,321,679.80. The outstanding appropriations were for disaster relief and assistance to disabled veterans. For disaster relief the American Red Cross expended $3,871,827, of which the National Organization contributed $3,642,827, and the Red Cross Chapters $229,000. For disabled veterans, a total of $3,628,178 was called for, of which National Headquarters appropriated $1,641,178 and Chapters, $1,987,000.

The disaster relief figures do not include the Florida operations, which occurred after the end of the fiscal year, in addition to the work for disabled veterans, the Red Cross continued its work on behalf of men in the Regular Army and Navy and Marine Corps, which called for a total appropriation of $509,451.

The enrolled nurses' reserve, from which nurses for disasters and other emergencies are called, cost $47,382 borne entirely by the National Headquarters. Public Health Nursing, a part of the Red Cross program of national health work, cost $866,823, instruction in home hygiene and care of the sick required $152,466 in nutrition instruction, $164,107 was expended.

The Red Cross campaign to reduce deaths from accidents and drowning conducted by the First Aid and Life-Saving Service, called for $352,385, and has shown tangible results in lives saved annually.

The Junior Red Cross, one of the foremost peace influences in the world, was carried on at a cost of $31,053. All local Chapter activities of the Red Cross cost $823,000, while other domestic operations of the Red Cross, borne by National Headquarters, amounted to $264,040.

The remainder of the fiscal year's expenditures were accounted for in insular and foreign operations, of which foreign disasters in which the American Red Cross served, absorbed $53,075; League of Red Cross Societies, $180,000; Junior Red Cross foreign projects, $74,065; assistance to insular Chapters, $49,599; other insular and foreign work, $54,783; supervision of service activities and general management, $270,629.27.

The total expenditures for the year ended June 30 last were divided: National Organization $7,317,869.35; League of Red Cross Societies $1,180,000; Junior Red Cross $1,892,869.35.

THINGS TAKEN

By Guests Help To Make Hotel Bills High.

One reason why hotel bills are so high is the thousands of dollars worth of furnishings that are taken from hotel rooms by guests. That is what Norman S. Hall learned, as he relates in an article in this week's Liberty, in an interview with the manager of one of New York's largest hotels.

"I'd like to have you make this clear—the traveling public pays," Hall reports the manager as saying. "If the few who do steal from hotels would stop it," the hotel manager continued, "I could substantially reduce the price of my rooms and my meals tomorrow and still face my stockholders. The man who takes an article of equipment from a hotel room is picking his own pocket if he ever intends to stay in another hotel, because somewhere that item has been added to the bill.

"Another thing!" the manager continued, "Don't get the idea that every person who goes to a hotel does so with the idea of going away with most of the fittings in his room. Nothing could be further from the fact."

"The vast majority of people are honest. Every hotel proprietor in the world proves that by the way he accepts his guests. Most people are fair and honest and we have to accept the others at that valuation."

THE HALL-MILLS

Murder Case Opened In New Jersey Wednesday.

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 3.—(U.P.)—The State's version of the manner in which Dr. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills met death was related dramatically today before the jury which will determine the guilt of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens.

Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson, in an opening address that lasted but twenty minutes, described the double murder as a result of natural jealousies occasioned by the New Brunswick rector's love for the young choir singer.

Simpson spoke for the most part effortlessly. But occasionally with the training of legislative oratory, he held the interest on a high key of suspense.

Mentioning Mrs. Mill's fondness for literature and the finer things of life which had been denied her in the marriage to a church sexton, Simpson went on to describe how Mrs. Mills became interested in religion and more definitely the handsome pastor of the fashionable church of St. John the Evangelist.

"To her he was a sort of demi-god," Simpson boomed. "and Mrs. Mills came to love him."

Then, turning to the case of Dr. Hall, Simpson described the Rector as having married an older woman only to find that the wealth and position he had wed were accompanied by a "chill, cold, household."

The prosecutor told the jury he was able to prove that Mrs. Hall knew of the affection between her husband and Mrs. Mills, had in fact, read love letters exchanged by the pair and had intercepted a telephone call on the night of September 14, 1922, when Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills repaired to their fatal tryst.

RUBBER TREE FOUND IN FLORIDA GARDEN

Raises Hopes in Minds of Plant Experts.

Washington—Considerable excitement has been aroused among the rubber experts of the United States Department of Agriculture here over the discovery by O. E. Cook, department rubber expert, of a twenty-five-year-old Brazilian rubber tree growing in a yard at Palm Beach, Fla. While they decline to state that this indicates the possibility of large-scale rubber plantation operations in the United States proper, the mere existence of this tree so far out of the equatorial zone, hitherto thought to be its only possible home, gives rise to suggestions which they think should be acted upon at once.

In its native home in the Amazon valley, as well as in the plantations of Indomalaya, the Brazilian rubber tree sticks very close to the equator, where the normal cool nights and the occasional frosts of the Florida climate are unknown.

Experiments That Came to Grief. Experimental plantations of rubber seedlings in Florida twenty years ago all came to grief, and last winter an unusual cold snap severely injured most of the seedlings at the Department of Agriculture's experimental farm at Coconut Grove and killed a part of them outright. It has, therefore, been assumed that the Brazilian species is extrasensitive to cold and would not survive in even a subtropical climate. To all this, the discovery of a twenty-foot-high tree, with a trunk between three and four inches thick, has proved very upsetting.

An outcome of this indication of hardness, on the part of at least some of the Brazilian trees, of more practical and immediate importance than attempts to grow rubber in Florida, will be the investigation of the possible adaptability of the species for cultivation in the border-line tropics, such as Mexico and the West Indies.

Hevea Hardier Than Castilla. There is already some indication that Hevea, the Brazilian tree, is harder than the Mexican rubber tree, Castilla, for last winter's frost at Coconut Grove had worse effects on Castilla seedlings than it had on seedlings of Hevea in neighboring rows.

In the meantime, the department is instituting a search in other parts of Florida for Hevea trees, similar to the Palm Beach specimen, which people may have set out as ornaments. They point out that the Palm Beach location is not the best kind of habitat for the species, since Hevea is predominantly a tree requiring shelter, and that the inland hardwood groves, or "hammocks," would afford this better than a coastal location swept by sea breezes.

Strange Food

A popular table delicacy in China is "pidan," which is made by preserving fresh ducks' eggs in a paste made from soda, straw ash, table salt, boiling water and slacked lime. The pidan is stored for a month before being used. Experiments have shown that there is as much vitamin A in pidan as in fresh eggs, but vitamin B is entirely destroyed by the process.

PLANS FOR MEAT

TRAIN COMPLETED.

At a meeting last Thursday evening at the Farm bureau office at Circleville representatives of chamber of commerce, Rotary club, Circleville schools Business Women's club, Pickaway Live stock association, and Farm bureau completed plans for the meat train which will be in Circleville November 10. Mr. Russell G. East, agriculture agent of the Pennsylvania railroad system was in charge of the meeting.

The four cars of the train will be open for inspection from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Pupils of the seventh and eighth grades, of the high school of Circleville will visit the train in groups in the morning, under the supervision of Professor J. O. Eagleson. The county school will also visit the train in the forenoon under the supervision of Superintendent M. C. Warren. In the afternoon from two to 9 o'clock housewives of Pickaway county will have the opportunity of visiting the train and hearing lectures on preparation and cuts of meats.

The first car will contain livestock ready for market. Second car will contain cuts of meat such as is found in livestock exhibited. In the third car, two of our local butchers, Beck Brothers and Charles H. Smith will furnish sides of meat and meat cutters who will show the different cuts of meat which can be secured from one side of meat. The relation of fat to palatability will also be shown in this car. In the fourth car demonstrations, lectures and preparation of meats will be conducted. The educational value both to producer and consumer is declared to be of greater value than any demonstration train heretofore conducted.

Farmers and their wives, townsmen and their wives, children of the seventh and eighth grade and high school will alike find much educational value in this train. Everyone is invited.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS

Tuna Fishing.

Tuna fishing is an exciting sport, even when done as a regular job. The "albacore" as the tuna was first named, is a swift and powerful swimmer, hard to catch, and efforts to take it in nets have so far failed. The fishermen go out between June and September and when a school of albacore is found, begin throwing handfuls of small fish overboard. In a few minutes the albacore become so excited that they will leap up to catch the little fish. Immediately the fishermen drop baited hooks, hauling in the albacore as fast as they can. The fish are cleaned immediately to keep their flesh white. At the cannery they are cooked whole by steam and their natural oil, which is not appetizing, is cooked off. Olive oil is added and that is the way we know tuna fish as it comes canned. The demand is so heavy that the supply is usually hard to keep up.

Pumpkin Pie.

There are two ways of making pumpkin pie. You will probably want to try both of them during the Thanksgiving season, though prepared pumpkin is available at any time of the year and you may just as well have pumpkin pie for Easter or Fourth of July. One way of making it is the old-fashioned way, fairly strong in flavor. Heat a cup of milk, two cups of canned pumpkin, one cup of sugar, a half cup of molasses, two teaspoons of cinnamon, a teaspoon each of ginger and salt, and a half teaspoon each of nutmeg and allspice. Pour on two slightly beaten eggs and fill the baked crust. Heating the ingredients before adding them to the egg keeps the crust from becoming soaked. This quantity makes two pies.

Of more delicate flavor, and equally good, is the filling made with a cup and a half of canned pumpkin, two-thirds of a cup of white sugar, one teaspoon of nutmeg, grated, a half teaspoon salt, two slightly beaten eggs and two cups of milk. If you like your filling rich, use part cream.

FIRST DEMOCRAT

Ever To Be South Dakota Governor Elected Tuesday.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 3.—The first Democrat ever to occupy the governor's chair in South Dakota will come into the Statehouse in January, gubernatorial returns indicated today.

M. J. Bulow, Democrat and a country lawyer of Beresford, S. D., is victorious over Carl Gunderson, Republican governor, with the tacit help of a Republican faction which deplored Gunderson's effort to get the state out of the rural credit enterprise by which it has loaned $47,500,000 to farmers and landowners.

Gunderson is the second executive in the state's history to fail of election to a second term and Bulow's success breaks a consecutive row of Republican administrations since a Populist governor a quarter of a century ago.

Senator Peter Norbeck, Republican, was re-elected.

Like 'Em and Tease 'Em

At twenty-one a man is a musical instrument given to the other sex, but it is not as instruments learned at school, for when she sits down to it she cannot tell what tune she is about to play. That is because she has no notion of what the instrument is capable. Babbie's kind-heartedness, her gaiety, her coquetry, her moments of sadness, had been a witch's fingers, and Gavin was still trembling under their touch. Even in being taken to task by her there was a charm, for every point of her mouth, every shake of her head, said: "You like me, and therefore you have given me the right to tease you." Men sign these agreements without reading them. But indeed, man is a stupid animal at the best, and thinks all his life that he did not propose until he blurted out: "I love you."—J. M. Barrie.

Fast Climbing

A short time ago the Eiffel tower was the scene of a novel competition, to which substantial prizes were offered to those who reached its second floor in the quickest time. This feat, that involved the climbing of 730 steps, was performed by one man in the wonderful time of 184 seconds. His nearest female rival took 7 minutes 26 seconds to reach the goal.

The devil will promise to pay any kind of interest, if we only take his note.

The Resources of Diplomacy

By H. IRVING KING

(Copyright.)

ISRAEL VANDERBURG and Philip Scarsdale were highly respectable gentlemen of good financial standing. They cherished a thorough detestation of each other. It had sprung from a trifling disagreement ten years before and, watered and nourished by self-will, had reached its present proportions.

Israel had a daughter, Gladys, and Philip had a son, Thomas; and the young couple were so far from partaking of the paternal animosities that they considered each other about as nearly perfect as it is given to mortals to be. Both parents got wind of the fact and fulminated and dogmatized upon the subject to their degenerate children.

"I had an awful row with dad to-day about you," said Gladys one evening to Tom when they met upon the neutral ground of one of Mrs. Stayvecent Mulgrove's dinner dances.

"Having them oftener than usual lately?" inquired Tom.

"Yes, I think so," replied Gladys, "and I'm tired of them. Yet I'm awfully fond of dad, too."

"I had a bit of a run-in with the governor, myself, yesterday about you," replied Tom. "The governor is an old tramp in other respects; but when it comes to the question of our getting married he's the limit. What say, Gladys, let's go off and get married anyway. Neither of our respected parents shows any symptoms of recovering from what ails them."

Gladys was silent and thoughtful for fully two minutes—then she said: "We are going to be married, of course—that is settled. But it would be so much nicer if we could do so with the consent of our parents. Before we take the step, I think we should exhaust all the resources of diplomacy. It sounds immoral, I know, but the easiest way to rule a man is through his pet weaknesses. Now you just listen to me"—and she proceeded to formulate a plan of action.

"Tom," said Mr. Scarsdale suddenly at breakfast next morning, "I hope you are not still dangling after the daughter of that old thief, Israel Vanderburg?"

"Well," replied Tom slowly, "you see, it is this way. Mr. Vanderburg has announced his intention of casting Gladys off and cutting her out of his will if she marries your son."

"Oh, he has, has he?" growled Philip.

"Yes, sir," said Tom, "and he is really violent about the matter—declares such an alliance would break his heart and be a disgrace to his family. And as you are set against the marriage also, and have threatened to cut me off if it takes place—why, there you are!"

"Israel Vanderburg is an old ruffian and always was," said Mr. Scarsdale, and flung away from the table. But his son's statement of the case kept recurring to him all that day. He would go to almost any length to spite old Vanderburg.

Meantime Gladys was having a session with her paternal ancestor. "I suppose you will be glad of it," said she, trying to squeeze a tear or two into her bright blue eyes, "but Tom and I are up against it." First you objected; and now Mr. Scarsdale is furious at the idea of his son marrying your daughter—says it would disgrace him!"

"Disgrace him!" cried Israel; "does that old ruffian have the cheek to talk that way?" And Israel departed, turning matters over in the gloomy and vindictive chambers of his mind.

For ten years now the former friends had been seeking for an opportunity to do each other a mischief, and had found none. Now, at last, was an opportunity presented.

"Tom," said Mr. Scarsdale that night at dinner, "does that Vanderburg girl take after her father?"

"Oh, no," replied Tom; "everybody says she is her mother over again."

"You go and marry the girl," cried Mr. Scarsdale. "How Israel will rave, I'd like to hear him!"

And Mr. Vanderburg said unto Gladys, "So Scarsdale thinks he will be disgraced if Tom and you get married, does he? Nothing would give me greater satisfaction. You marry Tom just as soon as you can."

The marriage was hasty, the flight abroad on the wedding tour immediate. Philip and Israel, passing to the street, were each surprised to see upon the face of the other a smirk of malignant satisfaction. What could it mean? They were shrewd men and after profound consideration arrived at the true solution of the case. But they were also proud men, unwilling to admit that they had been outwitted, and so held their peace. A year later meeting each other one morning on the street Israel, with beaming face, accosted his old enemy for the first time in many years.

"It's a boy, Philip," said he. "I have just come from the house. Both doing fine."

"I was on my way there," replied Philip; "come along back with me. I suppose we have been two old fools. What are they going to name him?"

REPUBLICANS IN CONTROL OF SENATE

MAJORITY HELD BY ONE VOTE BUT MUST BOW TO INSURGENTS

The "Bad Boys" Will Help To Organize Body and Then Quit Reservation, Is Washington's Fear—Dawes' Vote Nullifies Tie, Rules Reveal—Radicals Do Not Like To Be Disciplined By Regulars—But Lost Honors Will Be Restored To Them—Brookhart and Frazier To Be Welcomed.

Republicans are to retain nominal control of the senate of the Seventieth congress, elected last Tuesday, by a majority of one vote.

Final returns show that the next senate is to be composed of 48 Republicans, 47 Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite, Hendrix Shipstead, of Minnesota.

Even should Senator Shipstead vote with Democrats on organization, which is unlikely, the tie could be broken by the vote of Vice President Charles G. Dawes, a Republican, who would cast the deciding vote for his party.

Hence, the outlook is for the Republicans to organize the Seventieth senate, which means election of the major officers, the retention of the chairmanships of the committees and the majority of representation on each.

Concessions probably will have to be made to the senate insurgents, all of whom will hear the label of Republicans. Two of them, Senator Lynn J. Frazier, of North Dakota, and Senator elect Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, were among the four Republican insurgents who were read out of the party at the outset of the present congress. A third, Senator-elect John J. Blaine of Wisconsin, was a follower and political protégé of the late Senator Robert M. La Follette, who likewise was ostracized by his Republican colleagues, and whose son, the present Senator La Follette, succeeded him in the senate.

Four other insurgents of varying intensity make up the group of eight senators, listed as Republicans, who will follow an independent course in all matters in which the Coolidge administration is concerned.

No such disciplinary measures are looked for in the next senate, when the votes of these eight senators are needed to organize the body.

Frazier and Brookhart will be welcomed back into the party fold with open arms by the regulars and treated with due consideration in the assignment of committee chairmanships and committee memberships, to say nothing of patronage crumbs that will fall from the senate table.

But that is about as far as the reconciliation will go. Once the senate is organized, the insurgents and independents will do as they please with legislation bearing the hall marks of the Coolidge administration.

control disappeared with the elections of last Tuesday. Any time two or more of the insurgents decide to join with the Democrats in opposing Coolidge proposals they are doomed to defeat. By uniting their forces they can hold the balance of power at any time between the two parties.

A similar situation existed in the senate in the Sixty-eighth congress. At that time the Democrats played ball with the insurgents, joining with them in many successful assaults against administration proposals. A Republican landslide in 1924 followed. Somewhat chastened by the rebuke administration to them at the polls, the Democrats adopted a different course in the present congress. They refused to enter into any combination with the insurgents to embarrass the administration.

Mansfield —With a price of $500 on his head, William Fox, 19, of Cincinnati, was hunted today as the slayer of Urbin Wolford, aged guard at the state reformatory here.

Fox a former inmate of the institution here, was identified by pictures as the youth George Trott, a trusty battled with after Wolford had been fired on by a gunman. The state welfare department offered a reward of $500 for the arrest of the slayer.

An attempted delivery of two prisoners in the institution was the cause of the attack on Wolford, reformatory officials said after a detailed investigation.

Washington C. H.—Drastic economy measures will become effective in Washington C. H. Sunday. The city police force will be reduced to one patrolman; the fire department will consist of one fireman; the municipal building will be vacant and barred. The city will be without street lights. Failure of the voters to approve a special three mill levy for operating expenses of the city caused the crisis.

The American Legion offered the services of its members for temporary duty in patrolling the streets, fighting fires and other public services.

BANDITS MAKE ESCAPE FROM POLICE CORDON

Answer Command to Surrender With Lead and Gun Fight.

Lying in ambush for bandits who were to rob a drug store, in Chicago, nine policemen Friday shot it out with three robbers and lost.

Acting on information given them by an informant, the policemen stationed themselves in a circle around the store. After a several hour wait and automobile pulled up and three men with guns started to get out.

As they did so, two officers ran forward with surrender commands. The bandits replied with lead and a gun fight which ensued several minutes in which one policeman, John O'Leary, was wounded.

The bandits escaped in a running fight after shooting themselves clear of the police cordon.

Election of Earl D. Bloom, Bowling Green, Democrat, as lieutenant governor, over James O. Mills, Columbus, Republican, by 4,319 appears virtually certain, from latest figures in the office of the secretary of state. These figures gives Bloom a lead of 4,319 votes. The vote stands: Bloom, 643,737. Mills, 630,418.

These are the returns from 73 counties and telephone reports from 15 counties whose written returns had not been received.

Each of these 15 counties was called by telephone and the figures on hand checked against the official records.

EASTERN STAR ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

Williamsport Chapter Fittingly Observes It's Thirty Years Existence.

A most interesting session of Heber chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, was held Thursday evening, celebrating the thirtieth anniversary of that organization in the village.

The chapter was instituted thirty years ago by Crown chapter, No. 8, of Columbus, assisted by Royal chapter, No. 29, of Washington C. H., and at this anniversary occasion both chapters were present as invited guests.

The beautiful degrees of the order were exemplified in faultless style by past patron, with Mrs. Edwin Newhouse presiding.

At the conclusion of the degree work a most impressive memorial service was held for officers and members who have died since the organization of the chapter. The memorial service was rendered by Worthy Matron Wanda Wardell assisted by Mrs. Clarence McAbee and Mrs. Edna Newhouse. Vocal and instrumental music added much to the effectiveness of both memorial and degree work.

Seventeen members of Crown chapter were present when the local organization was instituted and the same number from the same chapter was present at the anniversary celebration thirty years later, including the present worthy matron and worthy patron, Mrs. Spence and Mr. Stevens.

A goodly number of officers and members of Royal chapter were present, among them being the worthy matron and worthy patron, Mrs. Hayes and Mr. Duff.

The honor guest was Past Worthy Grand Matron Eva J. Penn, of Washington C. H., who assisted in the ceremony of instituting the chapter three decades ago.

Mrs. Penn complimented Heber chapter on its growth and property and on the impressive manner in which the degrees were conferred and she also expressed her very great pleasure in having the privilege of attending the anniversary celebration.

Other speakers were worthy matrons and worth patrons of Crown and Royal chapters.

Reminiscences of the Williamsport chapter during the thirty years of its history were given in most entertaining and instructive manner by Past Matron Cedelia Morgan.

Preceding the session a splendid chicken dinner, with all the trimmings was served to the one hundred and fifty members of the order attending the meeting.

Those present from this city were Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Clark K. Hunsicker, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Colwell, Mrs. John P. Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Chappellear.

Fostoria—Two mutes, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Dennis, missing since Tuesday were discovered asphyxiated in their home here today. J. E. Whiteman, a farmer, becoming alarmed broke the door of the Dennis home and found the couple dead. They apparently had been suffocated by fumes from a coal stove.

The Girl He Needed

She was young, shingled, and fair haired, and more than ordinarily attractive. As she sat down near the well-dressed man who had called her from the adjoining room her face wore a look of expectancy. Previous to this, he had said that he badly needed her.
"Dear," he began; and then words seemed to fail him. He rose and made a circuit of the room as if to collect his thoughts.
The girl smiled encouragingly, and he sat down once again. With visible effort, he pulled himself together, then:
"Dear sir, in reply to yours of yesterday's date." — London Answer.

A NATIONAL LIVESTOCK EXPOSITION

Ohio Will be Represented in Judging Contest by Darke County Team.

In recognition of its educational value to the stockmen and farmers along their lines, all railroads in Ohio have granted an open roundtrip rate of a fare and one-half to the International Live Stock exposition at Chicago, November 27 to December 4. Tickets will be sold from November 25 to December 1, inclusive and will have a return limit of December 6. This offers an excellent opportunity to enjoy a visit to the world's greatest agricultural show and a trip to the metropolis with all its attractions at special reduced rates.
Ohio will be represented in the Non-Collegiate Live Stock Judging contest November 26 at the international by its state champion team from the Jackson Township Pig club, Darke county. This team will compete at Chicago against similar groups from over twenty states to decide the national title. It is composed of Robert Brooks, Union City, Indiana, Eugene Hufford, Ansonia and Wayne Bremer, Greenville, and is coached by Francis W. Wean, a vocational agricultural teacher at the Jackson township consolidated school. The three highest individuals in the national contest will receive agricultural college scholarships of $500, $300 and $200 offered by the Chicago association of commerce.
W. H. Palmer, Ohio State club leader, is chairman of the executive committee of leaders in charge of the fifth National Boys' and Girls' Club congress which will be held in connection with the international.
O. E. Bradfute, well known farmer and breeder of Xenia, is a director of the exposition. He was an exhibitor of Aberdeen-Angus cattle at the first International in 1900 and for many years figured prominently in the awards.
O. T. Henkle, general manager of the Union Stock Yard & Transit company, of Chicago, a native of Washington C. H., is treasurer and a director of the International and chairman of the Horse show committee which has charge of the evening programs in the arena.
E. L. Shaw, Ashley, has been selected as official judge of the fat South-down, Rambouillet and short and medium-wooled Grade and Cross-Bred sheep classes and award the wether championship at the coming show. He will also judge the college exhibits in the Mutton Improvement demonstration.
Early entries in the live stock classes by Ohio exhibitors included: Stump & Etzler, Convoy, 3 steers; Frantz Bros., Mt. Cory, 17 Galloways; Wm. McLaughlin, Columbus, 10 percherons; L. T. Hickman & Son, Marion, 31 Chester Whites; and Ohio State university Columbus, 15 steers.

England's Ancient Clocks

Old clocks have been recorded every now and then, but England claims two clocks that are more than 400 years old. One at a church in Rye parish, erected in 1515, is still running with the original mechanism, while one in Berkshire that has been faithfully telling time for 400 years is still working, though recently repairs had to be made in it.

PLOWING DEMONSTRATION

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday On the Dave Ludwig farm, a short distance out of town on the Kingston pike, there will be a plowing demonstration next week on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in sod that has not been plowed within the last twenty years at least.
The novelty of this plowing aside from the fact that it will prove a test of the tractor and plow because of the long time that the sod has stood, lies in the fact that this will be the first opportunity for the people of Pickaway county to see the Ferguson plow in operation.
The Ferguson plow as can be seen by the illustration in the advertisement in this issue is different from any plow ever operated behind any tractor in this county. The plow has no wheels and is fastened and operated with its entire weight on the rear end of the tractor.
R. L. Brehmer, who is conducting the demonstration asks anyone whether he is a tractor owner or not to come and see this latest development in agricultural progress. The demonstration will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week the week of the eighth of November. — Nov2.

A DEMONSTRATION OF

One-Lever Control, in keeping with the extreme simplicity of the new Ferguson Plow

An innovation in power farming implements is the one-lever control found in the New Ferguson Plow. The plow can be easily lowered or raised from the driver's seat with one hand.
Tests have proven that more weight can be put on the New Ferguson with the control lever than is carried around by the wheeled plow. In other words, the New Ferguson has all the advantages of weight without having to carry it around.

This feature makes the operation of the New Ferguson an extremely simple procedure requiring less of the farmer's time and attention while plowing than any other plow made.

No longer is it necessary to use horses for finishing lands, for the New Ferguson does this work perfectly. The above illustration shows the last operation when finishing a land. The jointer is especially designed to bury the trash even in this operation.

CHILDREN'S HOME

Society Is Doing Excellent Work In Ohio.

Mr. G. A. Schleyer, Dr. A. W. Holman and Judge E. A. Brown are the Circleville men that are serving on the State Board of reference of the Children's home Society of Ohio. This society was founded a third of a century ago to seek homes in good private families for orphans or indigent children, thus giving every normal child the advantage of home life.

Over two thousand children have been registered with this welfare organization for placement and a large number have been given the permanent care for a good Christian home with a devoted father and mother.

The society is always seeking good homes for children and would be pleased to answer any inquiries from anyone wishing to receive a child.

SEED CORN

SHOULD BE KEPT FROM COLD

Have you your seed corn for next spring? Practically all the corn this fall contains an excessive high per cent of moisture due to rain. This makes corn very susceptible to freezing injury. Seed corn containing a high per cent of moisture can stand but a very little freezing before the germ is killed. If you want to be sure of good seed next spring, you should be getting the corn out where it can dry before cold weather as good crops cannot be had without good seed.

NEW KIND OF MOTOR RACE CAR IN NORWAY

The Norwegian railroad administration has ordered peculiar motor cars which are fitted up with a three-hundred-and-fifty-CCM Douglas motor. Here are two of the tiny cars which resemble toys.

INTELLIGENCE IS QUITE NECESSARY

Some Suggestions Advanced to Help Drivers Make Long Distance.

Intelligent driving rather than occasional spurts at high speed is recommended by the American Automobile association as a time saver for long-distance motoring.

Speed alone will not aid the motorist to reach his destination in the shortest time, a statement issued from A. A. headquarters asserts.

The association has drafted some suggestions which, if followed carefully, should enable the motorist to make long distance in far better time and entail fewer risks than when he depends on speed alone.

"First know where you're going. It is quite surprising the number of tourists who travel blindly, depending for guidance on misinformation handed out to them en route.

"Know ferry schedules so as to be able to make quick connections. Passing one or two cars at an advantageous point often means saving a long wait by the river's edge.

Learn to Shift Quick.

"Learn the importance of quick acceleration and make every effort to keep the engine in such condition that it will help you save time when starting off from crossings after having rounded curves and when passing other cars.

"Learn how to make a quick shift into second gear so as to save the brakes when descending hills and to forestall possibility of having to wait at the bottom of the hill until the brakes cool off.

"Climb more hills in second gear. A great many cars are built with second gears which enable the driver to climb grades easily at 25 miles an hour or more as against a struggle at 20 to 25 in high gear.

"Drive at an even pace and avoid stopping. A few unnecessary stops cut the speed average considerably.

"Remember at high speed chances of tire or engine trouble are greater.

Watch Speedometer More.

"Get behind a good driver who is making good time in safety. He is a good man to follow.

"Buy your supplies before you start. It saves slowing down to look for filling stations that serve your favorite gas.

"Before passing through an unfamiliar city it is better to ask if there is a route that avoids traffic. It's the one stop on any tour that may save considerable time.

"Learn to watch the speedometer more. Do not set out with the idea of only seeing the fifties and sixties come up on the dial, but see how often you are driving a little below 20 or 25 when you just as well could be going these speeds.

"Take no chances of any kind. It takes time even to lecture some one who has scratched a fender.

Color Code Is Proposed for Wiring Automobiles

To simplify the identifying of the various wires used in the electrical systems on automobiles, trucks and motor coaches in maintenance and service stations, a subdivision of the standards committee of the Society of Automobile Engineers has recently proposed a color code to be used for the covering material of electrical cable.

In this code unprotected live wires would be colored red, while protected live wires would be yellow. In passenger cars low tension or primary ignition wires would be red with a yellow tracer strand, wire from the ammeter to the battery would be red with a black tracer, that from the lighting switch to the junction block for the parking lamp and for all ground connections would be brown with black tracer, that from lighting switch to tail lamp would be black.

Wires to the bright head lamps would be black with red tracer, and wires to the head lamps and signal lamps would be green. The color scheme for motor coaches and motor trucks is very fuller.

This proposal will go to the electrical equipment division of the standards committee and upon its approval, to the standards committee as a whole and finally to the council of the society for adoption.

Maoris of Egyptian O...in?

STAUNCHNESS

Staunchness of character is a commendable attribute in the lives of men and women. It is fitting that their memorial exemplify this attribute when they have passed on.

We have designs that well express this trait.

New Signal Appliance Is Invented for Automobile

A new invention to eliminate the necessity of sticking an arm out of an auto to signal right, left, or stop, has been invented by Mr. D. M. Sisti of Pittsfield, Maine. The invention is shown attached in place on an auto.

Close Watching Needed by Tires During Winter

Winter time is a hard period for the tires. Due to changing temperatures, standing in the freezing cold part of the time, and kept in a warm garage at others, even tiny cuts in the tread are more apt to develop into big holes than in summer.

Particles of ice and snow will lodge in the little cuts, and when the car is put in a warmer place, this ice thaws, wetting the fabric and in time leading to a gradual disintegration of fabric and tread. When the moisture here next freezes it serves to do further damage. Thus the alternate thawing and freezing develop small tread cuts into serious tire maladies.

It is best to fill up all cuts with the dough, keeping out water as much as possible. There are several excellent preparations on the market to heal tread cuts, and if applied strictly according to direction, the cuts are effectively sealed against the deleterious effects of winter driving over wet and icy pavements.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES

The driver who hits and runs away may live to be arrested another day.

The life of tires is shortened by violent acceleration.

Sheet lead is best for adding dead weight to a car because it will take up a minimum of room, does not rattle and can be readily fastened in place.

The usual reports are coming in about bees causing accidents by getting inside of automobiles. Bees in somebody's bonnet have been known to wreck party bandwagons.

Even if no automobile has ever hurt a train of a truck, we will say for them that they are always trying hard and never appear to be discouraged.

The average drayage mileage of loaded trucks in Connecticut and Massachusetts is 23 miles; Pennsylvania, 24 miles; Cook county, Illinois, 26 miles; California, 21 miles.
